BUCKHEAD COALITION PUBLIC SAFETY FORUM

APD Chief Schierbaum and Madam District Attorney hosted a public safety panel and discussion for the Buckhead Coalition.

Our very own Madam DA and Deputy DA Dexter Bond were invited to our nation's capital for a Black History Month celebration on February 28th hosted by Vice President Kamala Harris and Second Gentleman Douglas Emhoff. VP Harris and Mr. Emhoff honored Black leaders who are forging paths and making history across the country and within their respective communities.

During Madam District Attorney and Mr. Bond's time in the DMV area, they met with Baltimore City State's Attorney Ivan J. Bates to see how Baltimore has been successful in combating crime, increasing community engagement, discussing victim witness services, and much more.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Every February, the U.S. honors the contributions and sacrifices of African Americans who have helped shape the nation. Black History Month celebrates the rich cultural heritage, triumphs and adversities that are an indelible part of our country's history. "There is no American history without African American history," said Sara Clarke Kaplan, executive director of the Antiracist Research & Policy Center at American University in Washington, D.C. The Black experience, she said, is embedded in "everything we think of as 'American history.'"

It was Carter G. Woodson, the "father of Black history," who first set out in 1926 to designate a time to promote and educate people about Black history and culture. Woodson envisioned a weeklong celebration to encourage the coordinated teaching of Black history in public schools. He designated the second week of February as Negro History Week and galvanized fellow historians through the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, which he founded in 1915. Woodson's goal from the very beginning was to make the celebration of Black history in the field of history a serious area of study. The idea eventually grew in acceptance, and by the late 1960s, Negro History Week had evolved into what is now known as Black History Month. Protests around racial injustice, inequality and anti-imperialism that were occurring in many parts of the U.S. were pivotal to the change. Colleges and universities also began to hold commemorations, with Kent State University being one of the first. Fifty years after the first celebrations, President Gerald R. Ford officially recognized Black History Month during the country's 1976 bicentennial. Ford called upon Americans to "seize the opportunity to honor the too-often neglected accomplishments of Black Americans in every area of endeavor throughout our history."

SHOUT OUTS SHOUT OUTS

FULTON PARTNERS & FRIENDS!

I want to thank each of you individually and collectively for your assistance and collaboration with our Cobb Family Advocacy Center in getting our first case/referral successfully handled. The connection started with a call that I made to our Austell Chief of Police; Chief Hamilton who then connected me to the new Assistant Chief at Fulton DA's; Assistant Chief Salters, who then got me connected with Mr. Rhodes at Fulton's SO. Our Chief here at the DA's Office sealed the connection between Assistant Chief Salters and I and made calls and contacts on behalf of this case. As a result of your diligence, this client can maintain her employment, keep her family intact, and have a second chance in turning her life around after this event. We could NOT have made this happen without each of these connections.

I plan to highlight this collaboration in several ways here in Cobb County to include a press release and newsletter that will be shared with our state and national partners.

THIS is the power of partnerships!

Thank you all again and we look forward to continued collaborations. If there's any way that we can support you or a client, please do not hesitate to reach out.

4TH AMENDMENT

SEARCH & SEIZURE– JAIL CELLS

The cornerstone of the 4th Amendment is the reasonableness behind a legitimate expectation of privacy that someone can or should have.

When someone is imprisoned or is a pre-trial detainee in a jail awaiting trial, courts have held that an inmate's expectation of privacy in a cell is necessarily diminished. Thomas v. State, 263 Ga. 85, 87 (1993). That's because jail officials must access cells and inmates' personal effects for security and maintenance purposes. Therefore, no search warrant is required for the search and items seized during the search, such as letters, cellphones, weapons, etc., can be used in a future prosecution.

Nonetheless, there is an exception where the 4th Amendment allows an inmate to retain limited but legitimate expectation of privacy. Leslie v. State, 301 Ga. 882, 887 (804 SE2d 351) (2017). Where jail personal or law enforcement search an inmate's cell at the behest of the State to bolster an active case, the State would likely need probable cause to search the cell. See Id.; see also Davis v. State, 307 Ga. 625, 631 (2020). The logic behind this restriction is that the courts do not want the State to take advantage of the pre-trial detainee's confinement to bolster its case against that person.

Therefore, where a search is conducted under the premise of security and maintenance, any evidence recovered from a cell does not need to be the byproduct of a search warrant.

SLEEP AND MENTAL HEALTH

SLEEP IS BY FAR ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT AND ESSENTIAL ACTIVITIES IN REGARD TO BOTH PHYSICAL AND MENTAL HEALTH.

According to the Center for Disease Control (2022), adults need “7 hours or more” of sleep each night. In addition, the quality of sleep is also important as rapid eye movement (REM) sleep is the stage when the brain is developed, memories are stored, and emotions are processed. A lack of the adequate quality or quantity of sleep can cause irritability, aggression, and can influence one’s concentration, memory, mood, and performance in daily activities. Further, a lack of sleep is linked to increased mood disturbances such as stress, depressed mood, or anxiety.

On the contrary, mental illness can also greatly impact sleep. Stress, anxiety, and depression can cause difficulties falling asleep, sleeping through the night, or falling into REM sleep. Depression has also been linked with excessive sleepiness and tiredness. Lack of sleep can ascorbate symptoms of mental illness and is linked to other physical conditions such as weight gain, weakened immune system, and increases the risk of heart disease (Watson & Cherney, 2021).

One of the keys to getting adequate sleep is to create a routine. A good routine includes going to bed around the same time and waking up around the same time, even on weekends. In addition, decreasing activities that can stimulate the brain such as playing video games, intensive exercise, watching television, or being on the cell phone before going to sleep can be helpful. If you happen to fall asleep and wake up in the middle of the night, deep breathing can be a great tool to fall back asleep. If this technique does not work, try getting up from bed and read a book until you fall back asleep. If stress and anxiety is causing sleep deprivation, try journaling to write down all your thoughts to get them off your mind (Lamotte, 2021).

If sleeping issues persists, it is best to see a medical professional to rule out any medical issues. If there are no medical issues, it may be time to seek counseling. Fulton County Employee Assistance Program is available to all employees and provides up to 8 free confidential sessions.

You can reach the Employee Assistance Program 24 hours a day, seven days a week by calling 800-999-7222 or visiting www.AnthemEAP.com (password: Fulton).

JAZMIN WILLINGHAM

Senior Assistant District Attorney

Jazmin was born in Maywood, Illinois, about 15 minutes west of Chicago. The middle of three children and the only girl, she never had to deal with middle-child syndrome (lol). To this day, her brother don't question who is in charge; if they do, she often reminds them who's the boss. Jazmin is extremely close to her brothers Gerrett and Edmund, so close that Edmund gets sick at the time as she does even though they live hundreds of miles apart. . At about age 14, Jazmin moved with her mom and brothers to Lithonia, where she graduated from Lithonia High School in 2008 before attending Hampton University. If you are familiar with Jazmin, it wouldn't be a surprising to know that she took all 8 a.m. classes and studied in her free time (lol). Despite excelling academically at Hampton, Jazmin found it wasn't the best fit for her socially. She transferred to THE TUSKEGEE UNIVERSITY, where she was a member of the SGA events committee and often volunteered at local elementary schools. She truly enjoyed her HBCU experience, one she had looked forward to since her mom took her to visit the AUC when she was 6 and led her to watch every episode of A Different World.

Jazmin graduated from Tuskegee in 2012. Shortly afterward, she met her now-husband Josh. She was blessed to grow up in a well-blended family where her dad and bonus dad became great friends before her dad passed away last July. One of the most memorable moments of her life was having her dad walk her down the aisle at her wedding. Jazmin will celebrate 5 years of marriage this June. She enjoys spending time with her family and friends (especially her new adorable nephew), eating at a good brunch spot, reading a good book, listening to 90's R&B, and traveling when she finds time. Jazmin is currently assigned to the Domestic Violence Unit.
